

Positioning

- Clipboards have been used in some circumstances for a writing surface as well as a padded lap pad with a writing surface.
- Provide the child with an angled writing surface to support his/her writing position and provide additional stability to his/her wrist during writing tasks.
- Provide writing at a vertical surface by using an easel or a paper taped to the door.
- Practice strokes at the easel with chalk.

Positioning

- Practice strokes in the air with arm and or pointed finger (air writing).
- Practice strokes with her finger on the carpet for increased tactile input.
- Encourage holding the paper firmly with helper hand.
- Use a slant board to encourage wrist extension and individual finger movement.
