

Pre Writing Skills

- Before the child is ready to write letters/ numbers they must be able to imitate a vertical line, a horizontal line, a circle, and diagonal lines (/, \)
- Continue to engage the child in early writing activities, such as coloring inside lines, imitating lines and circles, and basic line tracing. Consider incorporating Wikki Stix for boundaries, color-changing markers for tracing, and other multi-sensory activities with play dough, shaving cream, and chalk board activities to develop these skills.

Pre Writing Skills

- Provide multiple opportunities to color and create pictures using crayons, chalk, and paint during his day. These activities help to develop early writing skills and are developmentally appropriate for their age level.
- Practice scribbling on paper. Try painting or sidewalk chalk. Early pre-writing skills are important to start developing.
